Boulder County residents who'd like their opinions heard on county policies, programs and issues ranging from fire codes to services for the elderly to mosquito control are being invited to apply for openings on the county government's advisory boards, committees and commissions.

The deadline for applying for a post on one of those advisory panels, which make recommendations to the Board of County Commissioners, is Jan. 23.

Descriptions of the advisory panels and the vacancies to be filled, as well as application forms, are available on the Boulder County Advisory Boards and Commissions website, at bouldercounty.org/gov/boards/pages/default.aspx.

For more information, call the Boulder County Commissioners' Office at 303-441-1688.
